Expansion of papilio's international activities

- papilio expands its local presence in Germany by founding papilio Talent Solutions GmbH and integrates the activities of Voigt Talent Partner
- Elena Voigt has been appointed as Managing Director and member of the papilio management team

Zurich, Switzerland, 30 January 2024 – papilio, a leading company in the field of talent development, innovative assessment & management development services, and strategic talent consulting, today announced its expansion in the key German market with the founding of papilio Talent Solutions GmbH based in Frankfurt am Main. The German business will be led by the highly experienced international senior consultant Elena Voigt and will be incorporate the existing client base and operations of Voigt Talent Partner.

Elena Voigt, who will become Managing Director of the new business and member of the papilio management team, has partnered with clients across innovative and fast-growth industries for more than a decade to attract, hire, and develop the best talent. She brings a proven track record of building high-performing teams, developing talent strategies, and driving operational excellence. Elena's expertise in talent advisory and talent attraction consulting will immediately benefit papilio's growing client base, while existing Voigt Talent Partner clients will gain from papilio's extended range of services.

«Innovation has been a key strategic focus for papilio over the past 20 years. With this expansion in the German market, we are reinforcing our vision of being the leading partner for innovative talent solutions for growth companies internationally so that they can realize their full potential. With her extensive experience, Elena Voigt is an excellent complement to our management team, and will further expand papilio's offering in talent advisory, with a particular focus on talent attraction consulting,» said Pascale Reymond, Chair of the Board of Directors of papilio.

Jost Gloor, CEO of papilio, commented: «This expansion is part of papilio's sustainable growth strategy and complements the recent launch of 'enTalent', our next generation digital talent platform. With the creation of our German subsidiary, we are reaffirming our growth ambitions, particularly in digital talent solutions and talent advisory. Elena is a highly experienced and entrepreneurial expert in our field, and will play a major role in enabling us to provide our clients around the world with the best possible services.»

«The integration of Voigt Talent Partner into papilio underlines our shared goal to become an international leader in innovative, digital and consultative talent solutions. I am excited about our growth potential in Germany and internationally, and look forward to expanding our offering to existing and new clients,» added Elena Voigt, Managing Director of papilio Talent Solutions GmbH.
